

Idaho had never been to this part of the forest, and it looked a bit dark and foreboding. He was glad that Raven and Flint were beside him and that they were all heading on 'The Long Walk' together.

I've got my compass.

And we've got a map.

You don't need them, I know where I'm going.

Flint was a small mountain yeti and had read everything she could get her paws on about yeti expeditions.

Raven was a forest yeti like Idaho. He had tried to walk THE LONG WALK the summer before, but had to turn back, because of an angry bear.

