

Hmm ... Where are the stepping stones?

Idaho sat on the banks of the river and thought hard, staring at the deep water. On their map it had said there were stepping stones to cross, but there were none to be seen (and he had looked really hard!)

They'll be hidden by the extra water from the melting snow.

Idaho looked at Flint and Flint looked at Idaho ...
"What do you mean?" asked Flint.
"Well," replied Raven, "all of the water from melting snow on the high mountain collects in this river. I found that out the last time I was here."

Why didn't you say!

Raven!!

